

How to Reserve Chalet at Wasatch State Park

Wave 7 Feb 1985

Wasatch Mountain State Park will instigate a new procedure for reserving the chalet beginning Friday, March 1, 1985. The chalet is a popular mountain-type home located within the park that is available to groups by reservation. The chalet is in demand for reunions and other group activities throughout the year.

Park Manager Bard Ferrin said, "Park personnel will be taking telephone and walk-in reservations beginning Friday, March 1 at 8 a.m. Walk-in reservations will not be given preference." The chalet has been fully booked for March. However, reservations for April 1, 1985 through March 31, 1986 will be accepted. For reservations call 363-3232 (Salt Lake City line), or 654-3961 (Heber City line).

Coleman's hustle gives St. Louis its 6th straight victory

Associated Press

According to Vince Coleman of the St. Louis Cardinals, "Speed kills." So does lack of same.

Coleman's speed helped the Cardinals beat Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings Wednesday night for their sixth consecutive victory. Los Angeles, on the other hand, saw two consecutive runners nailed at third base to defuse an eighth-inning rally in a 3-2 loss to Atlanta.

Coleman opened the Cardinals' 10th with a single off reliever Pat Clements and took second on a wild pitch before Tito Landrum walked. Tom Herr singled to right and Coleman, who had stopped at third, sped home when Joe Orsulak's throw struck Herr on the leg near first base.

"He was worried about having to make a good throw and had to hurry," Coleman said.

Orsulak agreed. "You know with Coleman running that you've got to come up with the ball and get rid of it quick and throw it accurately," he said.

State parks in central region undergo changes in operations

PROVO (AP) — Visitors to state parks in central Utah will notice some changes next year when they look for that promising spot to camp or fish.

During the past year, the state Parks and Recreation Department opened many park concessions to re-bidding, and several changes were made in park operations.

At Deer Creek Reservoir, the Parks Department took over Island Boat Camp and removed the small cabins and all other facilities except one rest room building. The camp will now become a day-use facility only.

Doug and Julie Wagstaff of Heber Valley were the successful bidders for operation of the camp, and secured a 10-year contract with an option for 10 additional years.

The Wagstaffs are constructing a large building that will house a restaurant, equipment rentals and a store.

Mrs. Wagstaff said they hope to have the restaurant open by the holidays, at least for weekend use and for catering to large groups and weddings.

"We'll start out serving dinners, and by next season, hope to have the restaurant in full operation," she said.

The Wagstaffs also have built a new boat dock they hope to expand by next season.

Al Clayburn, superintendent of Deer Creek State Park, said a new entrance to the park is a little safer than the old one. The area has also been cleared to make parking for 500 vehicles.

"It has been filled many times this season, and people have also parked across the highway," he said, although that worries him because families must cross the busy road to reach the park.

"We have no acceleration or deceleration lanes near the entrance, so driving into the park is still dangerous," he said. Widening of that portion of the canyon road is still probably several years in the future, he said.

Clayburn said Island Park is used almost as heavily during winter months. "We've had 800 fishermen up here in the winter ice fishing," he said.

Courtland Nelson, supervisor of the central region, State Parks and Recreation Department, said the department is looking at the need to expand recreation facilities because the demand on some areas is so great.

Officials are looking at an additional 22,000 acres at Wasatch Mountain Stake Park, with construction of an additional 18 holes of golf, winter activity facilities and more areas for cross-country skiing and snowmobiling.

"We have added three new concessions in the Central Region, and we plan to add three more next year," he said.

The Central Region takes in nine state parks and the boating on Strawberry and Flaming Gorge reservoirs.

In addition to the new facilities at Island Boat Camp, Nelson is considering a new concession and equipment rental at Starvation Reservoir, and a new store-museum at Dinosaur National Historic Museum. The store would handle books and historic information of interest to the museum visitors.

Utah Lake State Park is being restored after the floods of 1983-84. New boat docks have been built, and the ice skating rink will open this fall.

New vault toilets have been constructed at Rockport Park, Nelson said, and the department hopes to replace the old marina and add a sewage dump station.

State Park Day Fishing Contest Held

16 July 1987

by Jane Farnum

Last Saturday morning 40 anxious anglers showed up at the Visitor Center at Wasatch Mountain State Park's anniversary celebration with high hopes of catching "the big one." The prizes at stake were new rods and reels donated by Anglers Inn of Salt Lake City. The children had to be 11 or under to enter.

When the deadline for fishing had arrived at 3 p.m. 26 fish had been caught. It was a close contest up to the very end with all the kids hoping to find one last huge one lurking on the bottom.

While Gordon Tenny took pictures of the event, Stephanie Deans and her JTPA trail crew labored over the results and awarded prizes. Winners were as follows: First Fish Caught went to 8-year-old Cal Taylor of Farmington; The Youngest Angler award went to 14-month-old William Cheng of Salt Lake City; The Heaviest Fish was caught by 11-year-old Jason Olson of Heber. The Longest Fish was caught by 4-year-old Joshua Giles of Heber.

Needless to say all the kids had a great time and the winners were beaming with delight after receiving their new rods and reels.

Along with Gordon and Stephanie, Richard and Rhonda Sorenson, Jimmy Brown, Brenda Wade, Angie Anderson and Bink Kohler helped make the day a big success and a lot of fun for all.

Division of Parks and Recreation Offers Free State Park Day Saturday, June 10

The Utah Division of Parks and Recreation is offering free day-use at all state parks on Saturday, June 10. Free State Parks Day is being held in conjunction with the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources Free Fishing Day.

The Utah Division of Parks and Recreation invites you to visit as many state parks as you wish on Free State Parks Day without having to pay the normal $3 day-use fee. You can also fish without the required fishing license. This is our way of thanking our regular state park users for their patronage and at the same time entice those people who have never visited a state park to come see what we have to offer.

Utah State Parks have just about any kind of recreational opportunities you are looking for — lakes, hiking, mountain bike and off-highway vehicle trails, spacious mountain, red rock deserts and historical areas. Many special events have been planned in conjunction with Free State Parks Day.

Activities include: the East Canyon Biathlon benefiting Special Olympics Utah, the Great Salt Lake State Park Sand Sculpture Contest, a special equestrian trail ride for muscular Dystrophy, and an evening Star Party by Hansen Planetarium will take place at Wasatch Mountain State Park, a special pony express activity at Camp Floyd/Stagecoach Inn, a kids fishing derby at Fremont Indian State Park, and free fishing clinics will be offered at Rockport, Willard Bay, and Fort Buenaventura (21st Street Pond) state parks.

Take advantage of this special offer and experience the wide array of activities and facilities Utah State Parks provide. Utah Division of Parks and Recreation Offers Free Day Use Saturday, June 8 1991

The Utah Division of Parks and Recreation is offering free day use at all state parks on Saturday, June 8. Free State Park Day is being held in conjunction with the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources' Free Fishing Day.

Jerry A. Miller, director, Utah Division of Parks and Recreation, said, "We want to thank regular state park users for their patronage and at the same time entice those people who have never visited at a state park to do so." Utah residents and non-residents may visit one or several state parks on June 8 and won't have to pay the regular $3 day use entrance fee. Golfing and overnight camping fees will still be charged. We hope many visitors will take advantage of this free offer and experience the wide array of activities and facilities the division provides, Mr. Miller said.

Help celebrate Free State Park Day by planning an outdoor adventure. Experience Utah state parks — plan a picnic, go for hike, ride your off-highway vehicle, go boating, or learn about Utah's heritage. No matter where you live in Utah, one of Utah's 44 state parks is within a short driving distance. For a complete listing of Utah state parks and recreation opportunities, contact the Utah Division of Parks and Recreation, 1636 West North Temple, Salt Lake City, UT 84116-3156, telephone (801) 538-7221.

Use fees and passes

Fees

Day-use and camping fees are charged at all state parks except those designated on facilities charts.

Additional fees are charged for other services such as ice skating, roller skating, boat mooring, chalet or visitor center rentals, group-use facilities, and reservations.

Fun Tag

Annual Utah State Park Fun Tag permits may be purchased. Permits allow bearer and guests in the same private, noncommercial vehicle day-use admittance to all state parks. The permit also provides for a reduction in designated camping fee.

Special Fun Tag

A free lifetime Special Fun Tag permit is available to Utah residents over 62 years of age, and to the permanently disabled. This Special Fun Tag allows the same privileges as the Fun Tag.

How to Determine Park Fees

Fees are subject to periodic change. Fee schedules are available at all state parks, region offices, and headquarters office.

Bangerter Declares Aug. 25-31 National Park Service 75th Anniversary Week

14 Aug 1991
Governor Norman H. Bangerter has declared Aug. 25-31 as National Park Service 75th Anniversary Week in Utah. Congress passed the legislation that created the National Park Service within the Department of the Interior on Aug. 25, 1916.

"As you travel the roadways of Utah this year, look for the 75th Anniversary logo in the parks, on National Park Service uniforms, flags and publications," Bangerter encouraged in his proclamation. "This Diamond Anniversary is a family celebration and, as park visitors, you will be a special part of the National Park Service family."

Representing the Park Service at the Salt Lake City signing ceremony were Rocky Mountain Regional Director Lorraine Mintzmyer and Canyonlands National Park Superintendent Harvey Wickware. "We're proud of our beginnings and appreciate the State of Utah joining in our celebration," said Mintzmyer.

In 1916, there were 30 national parks and monuments administered by the Department of War, Interior. Congress, seeing a cohesive management, passed legislation that created the National Park Service within the Department of the Interior on Aug. 25, 1916.
